

Expert Review Large Grants GAC members

September 2026

To ensure the British Skin Foundation funds the highest quality dermatology research, we operate a robust and independent peer review process to inform funding decisions.

We are supported by external, independent experts including scientists, clinicians, and specialist reviewers who contribute to our Grants Advisory Committees and external review panels. Their expertise and commitment are essential in helping the BSF support high-quality research that advances the understanding, treatment, and care of skin disease.

We are extremely grateful for the time and expertise contributed by our research community.

Listed below, in alphabetical order by surname, are the experts who supported the BSF research review process (Large Grants GAC) during 2026.

First name	Surname	Host Institution
Shoba	Amarnath	Newcastle University
Ajoy	Bardhan	University Hospitals Birmingham NHS Foundation Trust
Clare	Bennett	UCL
Daniele	Bergamaschi	Queen Mary University of London
Diana	Blaydon	Queen Mary University of London
Matthew	Caley	Queen Mary University of London
Sonia	Gran	Nottingham University
Matthew	Harries	The University of Manchester
Claire	Higgins	Imperial College London
Sophia N.	Karagiannis	King's College London
Chester	Lai	The Chinese University of Hong Kong
Satveer	Mahil	St John's Institute of Dermatology, King's College London
Lavinia	Paternoster	University of Bristol
Emanuel	Rognoni	Queen Mary University of London

Kehinde	Ross	Liverpool John Moores University
Kirsty	Rutter	University of Manchester and Northern Care Alliance NHS Foundation Trust
Inês	Sequeira	Barts and The London School of Medicine and Dentistry, Queen Mary University of London
Tanya	Shaw	King's College London
Thomas	Tull	King's College London
Christos	Tziotzios	St John's Institute of Dermatology, Guy's and St Thomas' Hospitals & King's College London
Zoe	Venables	University of East Anglia
Zenas	Yiu	The University of Manchester